Instructions For Reading Time Tables

1. In using this Time Table you must refer to the Table of Contents which will further refer you to the page number and specific Time Table. The Time Table will list the train and route, and will state the arrival and departure time of your train.
2. This Time Table is based on the 0100 to 2400 hour system.
3. Outbound trains are listed in the left hand column and read from top to bottom, with an arrow indicator as a guide. Inbound trains are listed in the right hand column and are read from bottom to top, with an arrow indicator as a guide.
4. Arrival and departure times are indicated for each station. The time indicator column has three dots "... " at the stations where the train is not scheduled to stop.
5. An abbreviation system, using the first character of the names of cities, at the beginning and end of the route, is used.
6. International Express Passenger Trains, national Through Express Passenger Trains and regular Passenger Lines Time Tables are referred to in separate sections.
7. Through Express Passenger Train Time Tables have footnotes referring to other Time Tables in cases where one line connects with another.

1. Passengers, upon buying their tickets should check the following:

INTELLIGENCE TRANSLATION

Station name, route, seat number, ticket price, date and train number. Should a passenger find any discrepancies he should inform the ticket agent and get the matter rectified immediately.

2. Military personnel, desiring a half-price ticket, who are on active duty must wear their uniform and respective rank and insignia must be showing. They must also carry a military I. D. card or travel orders. Recruits, relocatees, separatees, and retired personnel must have a letter from a Regimental Headquarters or higher, recommending them for a half-fare ticket. Medically discharged or disabled soldiers and the People's Police, upon producing proper identification, are also allowed to travel at half-fare prices.

3. With the exception of regular students, all students, including research students and those students who receive an income are required to pay full price. Primary School students are allowed to buy third class, or hard-seat tickets, for travel to and from school upon producing their Special Fare Certificate. Regular students who are travelling on Special Fare Certificates are allowed only four one-way trips a year at half-fare price. Special Fare Certificates must have the name of the issuing station on them.

4. People who are working in remote areas, along the Chinese frontier and who are travelling to stations in these areas, are allowed to travel at half-fare. Their dependents are also allowed this privilege. However, they must first submit a certificate from the People's County Committee or the Agriculture and Reclamation Bureau and also a Certificate of Household Movement Registration. These people are allowed to travel third class, or on hard-seats. They are also granted half-fare on Express trains.

5. Two children, under five years of age, may accompany adults free of charge. However, if they travel with additional children under five years of age or if the children are between five and ten years of age, then Children's Tickets must be purchased. The same rules apply when travelling by Express train. Children over ten years of age must purchase Adult Tickets.

6. When travelling by Express or Special Express, one must purchase a special ticket in addition to the regular ticket.

7. Sleeping berth tickets must be purchased if use of sleeping berths is contemplated. A charge of 60 cents is made for the use of bedding. Train tickets and sleeping berth tickets must be to the same destination. Should it become necessary to change trains during the journey the sleeping berth ticket is voided and cannot be transferred to another train. Sleeping berth tickets may be purchased at the start of a journey, for a portion or the entire journey, providing the passenger informs the ticket agent at the time he purchases his train ticket. The ticket agent will then make a note on the passenger's ticket allowing him a sleeping berth for a certain stated portion of the journey. Children under five or those using Children's Tickets, when accompanied by an adult, may use the adult's sleeping berth. However, should it become necessary to utilize more than one sleeping berth, additional payment will be necessary for the extra berths. Two people may not use the same berth at the same time.

8. Passengers travelling on Suburban Lines may purchase the following type tickets: single, round-trip and periodic tickets. Periodic tickets are purchased by workers and students. Periodic tickets are divided into two types: monthly and quarterly.

9. Platform tickets may be purchased by people meeting passengers or seeing them off. Children under ten, when accompanied by an adult with a platform ticket or on receipt of permission from the station master, may enter the platform free. Platform tickets are sold only at the station and may be used only once, on the day of purchase. Cost of platform tickets is five cents each.

10. The effective date of ordinary and express tickets is calculated as follows: 300 kilometers equals two days of travel. Distances in excess of 301 kilometers and each successive 300 kilometers counts as one day of travel. Under 300 kilometers also counts as one day of travel. Ordinary round-trip tickets are calculated at twice the distance of single trip tickets.

The effective date of Suburban single trip tickets is the date of purchase. Suburban round-trip tickets are effective for three days, date of purchase inclusive. Tickets may be purchased in advance with the effective date of the ticket stamped on it.

11. Effective dates on ordinary and express train tickets can be extended in the following situations (excluding suburban periodic tickets):

- a. If the train is full and seats are not available the effective date on the ticket can be extended.
- b. If it is necessary to change trains and the other train does not depart as scheduled the effective date may be extended.
- c. If a passenger falls ill and can produce a certificate from a competent medical authority the effective date of the ticket may be extended for a period not to exceed one month.
- d. An extension, for a period not exceeding ten days from the effective date on the ticket may be granted on a round-trip ticket, from the effective date on the ticket.

12. If for some reason a passenger is unable to board the appointed train, at the given time, he may ask the Station Master for an extension so that he may be booked on a later train. This request must be submitted to the Station Master two hours prior to the passenger's scheduled train departure time.

Sleeping berths, after being reserved, cannot be extended. Passengers on regular and express trains may be granted one and only one extension on their seats. After one extension there is no further refund.

13. A passenger may alight at any station he so desires, and may board a later train. However, he will forfeit his sleeping berth.

14. If a passenger mistakenly boards the wrong train the conductor may mark the passenger's ticket to that effect and the passenger will not have to pay extra. A passenger who mistakenly boards the wrong train and who desires to change his destination must purchase a supplementary ticket.

15. Passenger reimbursement certificates (TRANSLATOR'S NOTE: For reimbursement from the passenger's own organization) can be obtained in the following manner:

- a. Passengers using regular tickets, express tickets or consolidated tickets are given half their ticket back upon reaching their destination. This half is used to support their claim that they have completed the prescribed travel.

b. The above also applies to passengers claiming reimbursement on sleeping berths.

c. Reimbursement receipts are given with the purchase of periodic and substitution tickets.

16. If a passenger loses his regular ticket, or his express or sleeping berth ticket, while in the station, he would be required to purchase a new one in order to board the train.

If a passenger should lose his ticket while aboard the train, and could prove that he had the ticket in his possession while on the train, he would not have to buy a new one. If the passenger was required to purchase a new ticket and eventually found his old one he could get a refund on one of the tickets. The passenger would receive a full refund under these circumstances.

17. If a passenger desired a ticket refund he could obtain one under the following conditions:

a. A passenger may obtain a refund on a ticket if he requests the refund prior to the departure of the train. A small adjustment fee is charged. If the cost of the ticket is not in excess of fifty cents then no adjustment fee is charged.

b. A passenger may obtain a refund on his sleeping berth ticket providing that he requests such a refund at least six hours prior to train's departure time by paying the adjustment fee. However, if a refund is requested less than six hours prior to train departure time no refund will be made.

c. A full refund will be made to passengers in case of an accident. No adjustment fee is required under such circumstances.

A passenger, who because of illness prior to boarding the train or enroute to his destination and cannot complete his journey, will be given a refund upon the production of a medical certificate from a competent medical authority. The amount of refund will depend on how much of the journey the passenger has completed. Thus, a passenger getting sick prior to boarding the train, at the station of origin, would be entitled to a full refund.

The adjustment fee on regular train and express train tickets is fifty cents. The adjustment fee for ordinary type sleeping berth tickets is $2.50.

18. Passengers who are discovered aboard a train with a worthless ticket or no ticket, unless they can provide evidence to the contrary, are charged a double fare plus an adjustment fee. The fare is computed from the station from which the train began it's run. If the passenger desires to continue his journey he must pay the balance to the station of his destination. This also applies if the passenger is travelling on an express train.

If the passenger has no ticket on boarding the train, he may purchase one by informing the conductor and paying an adjustment fee.

The adjustment fee is fifty cents per person.

19. Should a passenger desire to continue his journey, to a more distant station than the one he originally purchased his ticket for, he may do so by paying the conductor the balance plus an adjustment fee. If the passenger needs a sleeping berth he will have to find a spare berth. If a passenger continues past the station of his destination (TN: Without paying the conductor the balance plus the adjustment fee) he will be treated as a no ticket passenger as outlined in paragraph 18 above.

20. Regulations pertaining to hand-carried baggage:

- a. Each adult may bring 20 kilograms (44 pounds) of luggage with him in the carriage. Children under ten years of age, including children travelling free of charge, can bring 10 kilograms (22 pounds).
- b. The following items are not allowed to accompany passengers in the carriage:
 - (1) Unpleasant smelling objects.
 - (2) Restricted transportation items.
 - (3) Items that would damage the carriage or annoy other passengers.
 - (4) Explosives.
 - (5) Inflammable objects.
 - (6) Corrosive acids or weapons.
 - (7) Animals.
- c. There is a baggage room at each main station where items may be checked.

The following are the prevailing charges:

(1) First two days ten cents for each piece of luggage.

(2) After two days the charge is ten cents per item per day.

21. Storage of luggage and packages:

a. Upon arrival at the station of destination luggage is kept for three days without charge.

b. Packages are kept free of charge for three days after the consignee has been notified.

c. A charge of ten cents is charged for each additional day in excess of three days.

d. If storage charge exceeds twenty percent of the item's value it will no longer be kept.
